MODO DE LLENAR LAS COLUMNAS

1. The first step in the process of the investigation is to identify the problem or the question that needs to be answered. This is often done by the researcher or the client, and it is crucial to have a clear understanding of what is being investigated.

2. The second step is to design the study. This involves deciding on the methods that will be used to collect data, the sample that will be studied, and the way in which the data will be analyzed. The design should be based on the research question and should be able to provide a valid answer to the question.

3. The third step is to collect the data. This is often the most time-consuming and expensive part of the investigation. It involves gathering information from the sample in a way that is representative of the population. This can be done through a variety of methods, including surveys, interviews, and experiments.

4. The fourth step is to analyze the data. This involves using statistical methods to summarize the data and to test hypotheses. The analysis should be able to provide a clear answer to the research question and to identify any patterns or trends in the data.

5. The final step is to report the results of the investigation. This is often done in the form of a written report or a presentation. The report should include a clear statement of the problem, a description of the methods used, a summary of the results, and a discussion of the implications of the findings.

The diagram illustrates the experimental setup. A participant is seated at a table, looking at a video screen. On the screen, a target (small circle) and a starting point (large circle) are visible. The participant's hand is at the starting point. A video camera is positioned above the starting point and target, recording the movement. The camera is connected to a computer system labeled 'LDA' and 'video screen'.
